IMPROVEMENTS ON THE POTOMAC. United States Civil Engineer S. T. Abert, to whom the work of improving the harbor of Washington and Georgetown was transferred by Col. W. P. Craighill, United States Corps administration of President Jackson, no work has been done, nor has any structure been erected which could alter the regimen of this part of the river. All the work since done has been confined to the simple dredging of a channel through the bars above and below the bridge.

Mr. Abert then refers to the act of March 5, 1872, appointing a board of survey for the purpose of reporting a full and COMPREHENSIVE PLAN OF IMPROVEMENTS.

The plan adopted by the board was to have for all purposes- -a direct continuation of the tion suggested will become necessary on acriver at Georgetown, to run along the right bank of the river as far down as Gravelly Point, and thence directly towards Giesboro' the present main channel.

The most important points in the plan were as follows: 1st. A depth of twenty-three feet up to the proposed outlet of the Chesapeake and the concurrence of heavy rains on the apand Ohio canal, above Georgetown. 2d. To permit the mai wavering of the largest vessels 3d. To increase the water-way at the Aqueduct 240 feet. 4th. To reopen the channel on the right of Analostan Island. 5th. To cut off | Point, at the foot of Seventeenth street, at the the left side of Analostan Island and Easby's Point, so as to permit the river to sweep in easy curves toward the Long Bridge.

After the execution of the operations referred regimen it would if the plan of the board were | treme high water was therefore an important tween the island and the remnant of the bridge.

THE LONG ERIDGE. By the removal of the bridge one of the railroad connections with Virginia would be broken. Mr. Abert therefore recommends that this part provision for the transit of trains and wagons combinations will be made to exact extravacan be settled. He suggests, as a possible solution of this difficulty, the creetion of a bridge with a draw of not less than 200 feet span, the remaining span being not less than 400 feet. changes which have taken place since the last of a portion of the sand and rock, an appropri-exeavation, I would state that in 1871 a cut of ation of $550,000 will be required. If, how-200 feet wide was made through the bar above the Long bridge. The work was begun under the direction of Colonel Craighill, and completed in December, 1871. The cut was intended to have a width of two hundred feet treshets which occurred caused some filling in. and reduced the depth to from thirteen to fourteen feet at low water. These depths have been considerably reduced by natural causes, the survey not showing more than eleven and one half feet, while in 1871 the depth had ranged from thirteen to fourteen feet. The length of the bar between the fifteen-foot curves was 4,000 feet. Below the Long bridge the least depth was thirteen and one half feet and the length of the bar between the fifteen foot curves 2,100 feet. The work was offered for contract and awarded August 28, 1874, to W. H. Beard, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Operations were commenced by the contractor on September 15, 1874, with one dredging machine, a second one being placed on the work September 30. The channel above the bridge was first dredged, the material being deposited and along the line of the proposed wharves. Piles were driven to mark the line and confine the dredged material. Work was continued until Dacember 22, 1874, when extreme cold necessitated a suspension of operations, which could not be resumed until March 9, 1875. The upper channel was completed April 27, and the lower commenced April 28. On May 20 the dredging machines were withdrawn, and on June 24 the work was completed. The amount of excavation above the bridge was 114.570 cubic yards, below 31,871, a total of 146,381 cubic yards. As the work approached completion it was found that a balance remained over which, by the conditions of the act of appropriation, might be applied to the removal of the dangerous rocks from,

THE HARBOR OF GEORGETOWN. A chart of the rock and specifications for their removal were prepared and submitted to the chief engineer of the army. The work was ordered to be advertised, but the period of execution will fall in the pext fiscal year.

In carrying out a plan involving the expenditure of such a large sum of money, the question arises as to the order and precedence which should be given to the parts, since the whole cannot be executed at once. When economy and rapidity of execution coincide in the same plan, there can be no difficulty in deciding the question. The dredging, which has just been executed, must be repeated every three yerrs unless something is done to remove the deposit.

This work forms no part of the plan of the beard, although by the act of appropriation it was to be applied so as to conform to its general features. It was not designed by them. It was temporary, while the object of the board was the permanent improvement of the river. If this plan is to be carried out in parts, much will be saved by making nature an auxillary. This can be done by making the regimon of the rivers conform to the lines as shown in the charts prepared to accompany the report tal, Palm, Sunflower, and a variety of other ready for immediate use, clean and not liable to of the board. Easby's Point and the left side of Analostan Island should be cut away so as to conform te these lines.

THE REMOVAL OF EASBY'S POINT

ALEXA GAZETTE & VIRGINIA ADVERTISER quent enlargement of water-way will relieve Georgetown of the danger which is likely to occur at the high water of spring time; but in cutting off the point it will be necessary to remove a larger amount of rock than was at first anticipated, and this part of the estimate will have to be proportionately increased, although by more modifying the lines so as to encroach less upon the land the cost of rock excavation will be materially reduced. But before practical operations can begin the title to the land must be extinguished by purchase, and the difficult question of valuation must be decided The next step should be

THE REMOVAL FANALOSTANISLAND, included between the limits marked on the chart of the river; but before this is done provision should be made for the transit of trains and for ordinary travel.

The enlargement of the water way at the Aqueduct bridge, and the deepening of the channel behind Analostan Island, are parts of the improvements. Whether the streets should be promptly extended to the deep water or only so near as will accommodate the trade of the city are questions for consideration. By of Engineers, has made his annual report to extending the streets the water space between the chief engineer of the army, as follows: them will be partially filled by the deposit Since the construction of the causeway between | brought down by the floods, and this would be Analostan Island and the Virginia shore and an economical method if the dredged material the building of the Long Bridge, together with did not exceed the quantity required to make its section of solid causeway, built during the the filling on the flats. The necessity of reducing the proposed depth in the channel would cause a considerable reduction in the amount of dredging, which would practically equalize the filling and exeavation, and would largely reduce the cost. The quistion is important in another respect, since it will be difficult to find suitable places of deposit for the excess of excavation. Without attempting at this time to fix the precise depth wich will afford an ample navigation

FOR ONE HUNDRED YEARS TO COME, but one channel of sefficient width and depth there can be little question that the modificacount of limited appropriations, and wil be desirable from reasons of economy. The amount of filling will depend on the height of the flood, Point, on the left bank, joining the deep chan- which is stated in the report to be ten feet at nel of the river at that point, following nearly | the Aqueduct bridge and four feet nine inches at the arsenal. There was a prospect that the floods of last year would be unusually high. The winter snows had been exceedingly heavy, proach of spring would, it was thought, cause widen the water-way to 2.700 feet, so as to an unusual flood. The approach of spring, however, was gradual, and the rains occurred between Easby's Point and Giesboro' Point, at intervals, so that the season of floods passed away without any unusual increase of water. Stations had been established at Easby's Long bridge and at the arsenal in order to fix precisely the height of the flood at these points. These observations seemed desirable, as an elaborate criticism of this part of the plan had to the river will naturally tend to assume the been laid before Congress. The fixation of excompleted. This tendency would become more | matter. I have omitted any reference to the decided if the portion of Alexander's island, bulk head, as its construction would follow the which lies next to the Long bridge, and a part | work I have proposed, and would require anof the bridge itself, were also removed, leaving other appropriation. The first steps, that is a water-way of about 2 700 feet in width be- the extinguishment of title of the portions to be cut off of Analostan Island and Easby's parts so cut off, should be EXECUTED POMPTLY. The longer the delay the greater will be the of the plan shall remain unexecuted until a cost, for the greater will be the probability that gant prices for the land. The case presents a simple alternative: either for Congress to accept the price fixed by the property owners if they regard it just and fair, or to appoint a PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL, Mr. Abert then goes on to explain what he has board of assessors. For the extinguishment of done, and says: In order to explain the title claims of proprietors, and for the removal ever, Congress decides on the prompt execution of the plans of improvement of the board of survey, $200,000 should be appropriated. In dilatory execution of these plans, the chappel along the Washington front is shoaling more total, therefore, required, will be $564,000.
